ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors are most deeply indebted to Professor M. J. Hashimoto of the Institute for the Study of Languages and Cultures of Asia and Africa (ILCAA) in Tokyo, who has been in charge of the project on the Computational Analyses of Asian and African Languages at the Institute, for his unflagging encouragement given during the entire period of the project of compiling this concordance, which has been carried out as a part of the above project. The authors are also grateful to the staff of the ILCAA and the Computer Centre of the University of Tokyo for their help and for making available for use the equipment necessary for our work.

The employment of the computer has involved many people in card-punching, proof-reading, operation of the machine, etc. In this connection, the authors would like to express their sincere thanks to Mrs. F. Fujishiro, Miss K. Uno, Miss Y. Nishizaki, Miss N. Wachi, Miss Y. Shihonoya, Mr. Y. Deguchi, Mr. and Mrs. T. Mizushima, Mr. T. Takahashi and others for their generous help given to the authors in the various stages of the project. Mr. S. Tanaka of Nisso Ltd. and Professor Y. Sakamoto of

ILCAA designed the programmes during the latter half of the project, for which the authors are grateful.

The authors would like to extend here their gratitude to the Mitsubishi Foundation in Tokyo for the financial aid so generously granted by them to the authors, which enabled them to carry out the project and to publish the concordance, and also to the Sarvodaya Ilakkiya Pannai in Madurai for undertaking to publish this concordance. The authors' thanks are also due to the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science for granting a fellowship to Sabbarayalu, under the auspices of which he was able to come to Japan and to stay for the two initial years of the project.

The authors are also grateful to Mr. S. Jeyapragasam, Lecturer at the Madurai Kamaraj University, and Mr. Y. Sreedhar of the Oxford University Press in Madras for their kind co-operation with the authors in the work of printing this concordance.

INTRODUCTION

THE PROJECT: PURPOSE AND PROGRESS

The present concordance is an outcome of the project "A Statistical Study of Names in the Cola Tamil Inscriptions" which has been carried out by the authors since 1974. It may be necessary, therefore, to give some explanation of this project here.

The importance of the inscription as a source material for the study of South Indian history has been generally well understood and actually many scholars have studied inscriptions in order to reconstruct the outline of this history and also in order to understand the social and economic conditions of ancient and medieval South India. However, socio-economic studies utilizing inscriptions carried out in the past are quite unsatisfactory for the simple reason that their method in the usage of inscriptions has been quite arbitrary. For example, one scholar would select those few inscriptions favourable to his view point, whilst another, taking a different stand-point, would select inscriptions favourable to his own view. The argument remains, therefore, essentially arbitrary and in many cases we are unable to discover which is true or nearer the truth.

What then the authors feel is necessary, is that statistical methods should be applied to the study of the inscriptions, which would be the only way to develop the study further, overcoming at the same time the difficulty which past studies have encountered. Bearing this in mind, the two authors, Karashima and Subbarayalu, started a joint project on the study of names in the Cola Tamil inscriptions applying statistical methods commencing from the time that Subbarayalu came to Japan in November 1973 under the auspices of a fellowship granted by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science. The programme of the project has been to analyse the information given by the names and designations of persons collected from almost all the published Cola Tamil inscriptions with the view of clarifying the administrative and social system of the period, which has remained obscure due to a lack of proper documentary materials other than the inscriptions themselves.

The programme comprised the compilation of a concordance of all the names and designations of persons thus far collected for their statistical study, which would be serviceable not only for historical studies but also for other studies such as sociological, linguistic ones and so on. The present concordance is thus an outcome of this joint research project.

The project was commenced privately by the two authors at the beginning of 1974 and was later made an official project of the Institute for the Study of Languages and Cultures of Asia and Africa (ILCAA) in Tokyo, with which the two authors were associated at that time, and it has continued so till present. In the first stage of their work Karashima and Subbarayalu used hole-sort cards for collecting and arranging data. The preliminary analysis made in this very early stage was published as an Interim Report in Japanese in the Computational Analyses of Asian and African Languages, No.1 (1975) published by ILCAA.

In the meantime, the third author, Matsui, who had had experience in the use of a computer and had shown a great deal of interest in this project, suggested the use of a computer for the analysis and joined the project as a member from July 1975. He laid out a general plan for the system of data processing. The computer used during the first stage was the HITAC 8800 in the Computer Centre of the University of Tokyo. Karashima and Subbarayalu continued to prepare the data in the hole-sort cards and completed it by the time of the latter's return to India in November 1975. The analysis of several selected items of information by the use of hole-sort cards was published by the two authors as an Interim Report (II) in the Computational Analyses of Asian and African Languages, No.3 (1976), which is appended to this concordance considering its lack of accessibility to scholars (Appendix 3).

In the same issue of the journal, Matsui presented an Interim Report (III) in Japanese on the method and progress of data processing. The two programmes which he has designed for coding and decoding the Tamil name segments are also appended to this concordance (Appendix 4).

Even after the return of Subbarayalu to India, the work of compiling the concordance was continued in Tokyo and Karashima once visited Madurai in August 1976 for consultation with Subbarayalu on some difficulties encountered in the process of compilation.

While the authors used the computer of the University of Tokyo, their system of writing Tamil names was to transliterate them using both Roman alphabet and Arabic numerals in combination, for example, the two looped 'n' being represented by 'N5', the three looped 'n' by 'N4', etc., since the line-printer of the computer has only a Roman alphabet in capitals and Arabic numerals. The authors were, therefore, planning to publish the concordance employing this system of the Roman alphabet cum Arabic numerals for writing Tamil names, and the texts of the concordance compiled by the use of this writing system were completed by March 1977.

In the meantime, however, ILCAA decided to install a new computer (HITAC M-150) and a Chinese-character printer (HITACHI 8197), which were put into operation from January 1978. The Chinese-character printer was a new device so designed as to be capable of writing almost all the known letters of Asian and African languages. The authors decided, therefore, to postpone the publication of the concordance for one year until such time as the machines became available for use, in order to print the concordance employing the transliteration system which is more familiar to scholars than the one which had originally been planned. Since the Chinese-character printer newly devised is capable of writing almost all the letters known to us, the authors could have employed Tamil letters themselves for writing Tamil names, so far as the machine was concerned. In doing so, however, one great difficulty which presented itself, derived from two facts; first, in the inscriptions Grantha letters are also used for words of Sanskrit origin; and second, the authors had not expected to use Tamil (and Grantha) letters in the concordance in the initial stage of data collection.[1] The authors, therefore, decided to use the familiar conventional transliteration system for writing: the one employed in the Tamil Lexicon and long practised by the scholars in the field of

1) Whilst collecting data from the inscriptions, we employed the same Roman letter with or without diacritical marks to transliterate both the Grantha and Tamil letters which have the same phonetic value. In the late stages of the project, therefore, we have not been able to use the original Grantha or Tamil letters for compiling the concordance.

South Indian studies including Epigraphists. In this system there is no provision for a differentiation between the Grantha and Tamil letters with identical sounds.

Professor Y. Sakamoto of the ILCAA, who is a specialist on the Austro-Asiatic languages and is also in charge of computer work at the Institute, was kind enough to assist the authors in this improvement in the writing system. The employment of the computer and the Chinese-character printer of the Institute for printing out the texts was made by Karashima under the kind guidance of Prof. Sakamoto in 1978. The complete text of this concordance was printed out in a fairly short period of time and has been handed over to the press for offset printing.

As to the analysis of the information collected, the authors have already presented some findings in the Interim Report (II) mentioned above, which also shows the scope of further study. The authors plan to examine the chronological and topographical distribution of almost all the items of information, such as titles, status terms, etc. and to attempt to discover their correlation. However, it may take another two or three years to bring the results of these analyses to the public. In the meantime, of course, anyone can examine such distribution and correlation by checking the data contained in this concordance.

THE CONCORDANCE: ITS COMPILATION AND USE

This concordance consists of two parts: 1) List of Names with Related Information and 2) Index to the Segments of the Names. The first part contains 9,590 names of persons with related information collected from all the published Cola inscriptions in the Tamil language found in the districts of Nellore, Chittoor, Chingleput, North Arcot, South Arcot, Thanjavur and Tiruchirappalli, which amounts to 3,168 in number.[2] These names are arranged according to the locality with serial numbers, and the arrangement of the locality, i.e. the District, Taluk and Village, is shown in List 2 of Appendix 1. The names of the ruling kings in whose reigns the inscriptions are dated have been omitted even though they appear in each inscription, since these names numbering twenty-eight are repetitive and can be otherwise be analysed easily.

Whilst collecting the names, the authors recorded each different name only once from each inscription, though the same name occurs more than once in one and the same inscription in many cases. Since the number of inscriptions examined for this collection is 3,168 and the number of names collected from them amounts to 9,590, it is learned that one Cola Tamil inscription from the seven districts mentioned above contains three different names on an average.

2) Though there is a number of Cola Tamil inscriptions which were found in the districts other than those mentioned above, we have omitted these inscriptions from our examination as we wish to confine our study of the Cola bureaucracy to the Cola country proper, i.e. Cola-mandalam and Jayankondacola-mandalam, the extent of which corresponds roughly to that of the seven districts mentioned above.

The authors' definition of a personal name is rather a broad one and includes the village name with or without a suffix-component, the gotra or its equivalent, the father's name and the individual's title(s), besides the individual's given name or the personal name proper. To give an example here, the authors treated the following name as one name: kiḻiyūr malaiyamān malaiyan periyuṭaiya-nāyan (āṉa) irācarāca-cētiyarāyaṉ. There are five segments in this name and according to our interpretation they represent the village name without a suffix-component, the equivalent of the gotra, the father's name, the individual's given name and title in the order in which they occur. The word 'āṉa' in brackets meaning alias is not treated as a separate segment. In inscriptions, however, so many names are found which have only two or three segments, three such examples being as follow: 1) viḻiyūr-uṭaiyāṉ āccaṉ pirammāta-mallaṉ, 2) ariyāṉ piccaṉ (āṉa) etirili-cōḻa-kaṅkai-nāṭāḻvāṉ and 3) cāman āccan. The first example has three segments: the village name with its suffix-component, the father's name and the individual's given name. The second example has also three segments, but they consist of the father's name, the individual's given name and title, whilst the third has only two segments: the father's name and the individual's given name. Sometimes the name is represented by only one segment: the individual's name or title. On an average, one name is represented in inscriptions by two segments.

As shown above, the authors have segmented all the names and tried to define those segments as much as possible. Numeral 1 of the Segment Pattern (SP) in the List signifies the village name, 2 the gotra or its equivalent, 3 the father's name, 4 the individual's given name and 5 his/her title. Therefore, SP1534 signifies that our interpretation of the four segments of the particular name is: the village name, the title, the father's name and the individual's name in the order in which they occur. In case where we have not been able to classify them, we have indicated this by a zero in the Segment Pattern. However, we should like to make it clear that those SP numbers we have given in the List show merely a tentative interpretation and not a final one. Further study would be required to ascertain them conclusively.

In the List, two further different kinds of coded information are given besides the names and their segmentation. One relates to the particulars of the inscription from which the name in question is taken. They are: the reference, the locality and the chronology. For these, the reader may refer to the Explanatory Notes on the List and also the Lists 1, 2 and 3 in Appendix 1.

The other kind of information relates to the particulars of the name or the person himself/herself. They are the Titles, the Status, etc. Although an explanation is also given in the Explanatory Notes, the reason for the inclusion of such information in this concordance should be stated here. As has been mentioned already, the main purpose of our project is to obtain some tangible idea on the Cola bureaucracy; by collecting all the designations such as title, status, etc. along with the names; by examining their chronological and topographical distribution, and also by discovering the correlation of some important designations. For that purpose, the authors have collected a fairly large number of titles, status terms, caste names, etc. by making a preliminary survey of the inscriptions before starting the data collection proper. These, together with the additions made in the later stage, are listed in List 4 of Appendix 1.

Among those items of information, Titles (TA, TB & FD) and Caste terms are generally taken from the name itself. Since most of them are a part of or the same as the particular segment (the former example mūvēntavēḷāṉ and the latter toṇṭaimāṉ), we are able to ascertain these by reading the name. For the purpose of analysis, however, they are shown in code in the List.

On the contrary, the Status (SA, SB & SR) is the information taken in most cases from the passage foregoing or following the name and is, therefore, not found in the name itself. The role performed by the person in the matter described in the inscription is also given in the List as FN. If it is certain that the person is female judging from the name or contents of the inscription, we have shown it by putting F. Some auxiliary information such as whether the office held by some person is central or local, is also given. For all these, the reader may refer to the Explanatory Notes and List 4 of Appendix 1.

By examining this information given in the List, one will be able to know more about the particulars of the title or status, in which one is interested, and make a further study of them. As has already been mentioned, our Interim Report (II) sets out the scope of this type of study for historians. Sociologists may be interested in the study of the naming system or the caste system of the Cola period by finding the relevant information in the List. As we have retained the original spelling used in the inscriptions when collecting data, linguists may be able to make a phonetic study of ancient or medieval Tamil by making a close examination of the spelling variation.

The second part of the concordance, Index to the Segments of the Names, gives all the 20,835 segments arranged in the Tamil alphabetical order together with the serial number of the name in the List to which they belong and also with the positional order of the segments in each name. This Index may be utilized to gather more information on the particular person in whom one is interested. For example, if one comes across certain ariyāṉ piccaṉ (āṉa) etirili-cōḻa-kaṅkai-nātāḻvāṉ in one inscription and wants to know more about him, one may be able to discover some more inscriptions in which the individual appears by searching for those persons who have all or even one of these three segments in their names and by examining the information available on each of these persons in the List. Moreover, this Index may be used to discover the frequency of particular segments, and we may also ascertain their chronological and topographical distribution by checking them through the List. The most frequent one hundred and three segments are listed in Appendix 2.

SII: South Indian Inscriptions

ST: South Indian Temple Inscriptions

TDI: Tirumalai-Tirupati Devasthanam Epigraphical Series

Note:

In the cases of EI, SII and TDI, the second and third coded references which follow these abbreviations, give respectively the volume of the series and the serial number of the inscriptions. In the other cases, however, there are some deviation from this principle. In the cases of ARE and ASS the second coded reference gives the last two digits of the (Christian) year of the concerned report, and the third coded reference the page on which the inscription appears. In the case of NI the second coded reference indicates the Taluk number of the Nellore District, which is given in List 2 in Appendix 1. In the case of IPS and ST, the volume number is not given and only the inscription number is given as the third coded reference.

A STATISTICAL STUDY OF PERSONAL NAMES IN TAMIL INSCRIPTIONS (INTERIM REPORT II) by Noboru Karashima and Y. Subbarayalu (COMPUTATIONAL ANALYSES OF ASIAN AND AFRICAN LANGUAGES, No.3, Tokyo, 1976)

For transliterating Tamil words, a conventional system which differs from the one employed in the Concordance of the Names in the Cola Inscriptions, has been used in this report.

The list of the coded terms originally appended to this report has been omitted. For these, the reader may refer to List 4 in Appendix 1.

INTRODUCTION

Last year we published the first interim report[1] on our joint research programme, "A Statistical Study of Personal Names in Tamil Inscriptions", organized by Karashima in the Institute for the Study of Languages and Cultures of Asia and Africa. The programme is to analyse the information given by the personal names and designations collected from all the published Chola inscriptions in the Tamil language, and whose purpose is to clarify the administrative and social system of the period, which is little known due to the lack of proper documentary materials other than inscriptions. We also intend to compile a concordance of all the personal names with designations which appeared in the inscriptions, which would be serviceable not only for historical studies but also for sociological and linguistic studies.[2)]

Until now, the utilization of inscriptions in historical studies has been quite arbitrary, and thus has set a limit on the advance of study. Therefore, this statistical method which we are now going to apply to our study is expected to reveal many so far unknown facts about Chola administrative and social organisation[3)] and thereby to contribute to the advance of study.

For the first year of our programme we used the Hole Sort cards for our work. We recorded in the cards personal names (including titles), designations (terms of status, occupation, caste, etc.) and other basic data such as

2) We have segmented a personal name into five segments, i.e. 1) village name, 2) gotra or an approximation of it in the meaning, 3) father's name, 4) given name and 5) title(s). Examination of their actual occurrence in the permutations and combinations is yielding some interesting results which have much relevance to a sociological study.

3) A statistical method applied to the study of revenue terms in the inscriptions has already revealed some important facts. Noboru Karashima & B. Sitaraman, "Revenue Terms in Chola Inscriptions", Journal of Asian and African Studies, No.5 (1972).

references, period and locality. Through the preliminary examination made before the preparation of cards, we selected a certain number of items for title, status, caste etc. and codified them. The table of these items is seen in our previous report and the table of the items with codes revised in the second year for the use of computer is appended at the end of this report.4)

The total number of the published Chola inscriptions in the Tamil language amounts to 3,543 and we prepared one hole sort card for one of the names which appeared in each inscription. The number of hole sort cards thus prepared is 9,590, which means that one Tamil Chola inscription provides us with about three different personal names on an average.

In the previous report we gave the result of our analysis of 2,557 hole sort cards which represented persons appearing in the inscriptions of the two districts, i.e. North Arcot and Tiruchirapalli. We selected four items and gave the findings of their analysis in the report.

Since then, in the second year we have completed all the original hole sort cards representing the persons of the seven districts, i.e. Tanjavur, Tiruchirapalli, South Arcot, North Arcot, Chingleput, Chittoor and Nellore. In this paper, therefore, we will give some findings of our analysis made for all the hole sort cards of these seven districts. The items on which we are going to report here are Udaiyan, Muvendavelan, Brahmarayan, Nakkan, Madhyastha, Nadalvan and a group of Feudatory titles.

In the second year of our programme, we had access to a computer for our work and started preparing computer data cards after making necessary change in the codification so as to make them appropriate for use with the computer. In the meantime, we continued the preparation of hole sort cards and their analysis. From this stage Professor Toru Matsui of the Institute of Oriental Culture, the University of Tokyo, who is not only a specialist in Indian history but also trained in the use of computers, joined us in this programme and designed many computer programmes for the preparation of the concordance and also for the analysis of the information.

The work of preparing the concordance is now progressing reasonably smoothly and we anticipate that it will be completed by the end of March 1976. Analysis of the information through computer will take rather more time. Using computers, we will examine the correlation of all the titles and status terms and also the chronological and topographical distribution of the appearance of those titles and status terms. The analysis which has been made manually using hole sort cards and on which we are now going to report here, therefore, is only preliminary to the analysis to be made in more detail using the computer. Even then, the findings of our analysis indicate the profitability of the statistical method applied to the study of inscriptions.[5]

ANALYSES AND COMMENTS

The table below shows the chronological[6] and topographical distribution of the appearance of the title udaiyan preceded by a village name. Figures indicate the percentage of occurrence of the title among all the hole

5) We are also aware of the limitations of the statistical method. One of the problems is the character of inscriptions as source material. In future we plan to examine the credibility of this in relation to the existence of the inscriptions. Our argument in the following section will remain hypothetical in that sense also, besides it being based on the preliminary analysis.

6) We divide the Chola Period into four periods. The first period is from Vijayalaya to Uttama (846-985 A.D.), the second: from Rajaraja I to Adhirajendra (985-1070 A.D.), the third: from Kulottunga I to Rajadhiraja II (1070-1179 A.D.) and the fourth: from Kulottunga III to Rajendra III (1179-1279 A.D.).

sort cards of each period and locality.[7]

Udaiyan is the title which is, in most cases, preceded by a village name. Unless the village which precedes the title is a holy place such as Tiruchirrambalam,[8] this combination of a village name and udaiyan in a personal name seems to indicate that the person has the ownership of some land in the village. Though this view will remain hypothetical until we have completed an elaborate study of this title in future, if correct, the distribution pattern of this title would be of importance.

District	Period
	I	II	III	IV
Tanjavur	11.4	12.7	16.4	22.9
Tiruchirapalli	4.4	14.9	17.5	17.7
South Arcot	7.0	14.9	20.5	19.9
North Arcot	18.2	10.5	13.5	8.6
Chingleput	8.6	15.7	8.4	10.0
Chittoor & Nellor	9.1	9.7	16.7	3.0

7) Tanjavur temple has three exceptionally big inscriptions (SII, Vol.II, Nos.66, 94 & 95) belonging to the second period, which as a whole provides us with the names of 400 female dancers and 689 shephards. We have excluded these 1089 names as being exceptional from the basic data (denominator) in calculation of the percentage in the following analyses.

8) We exclude such cases from the data used here for making this distribution pattern.

In the districts of Tanjavur, Tiruchirapalli and South Arcot, which may be taken as somehow representing Cholamandalam, the frequency of appearance increases with the advent of time, but in the districts of North Arcot, Chingleput, Chittor and Nellore, which may be taken as representing Jayangondacholamandalam, its appearance does not show such clear tendencies. The reason for this irregularity might have come from the infrequency in appearance compared with the frequency in Cholamandalam.

The increasing emergence of the title in Cholamandalam would be taken as indicating a tendency towards the development of private ownership of land[9] in the area towards the end of the Chola Period, if we accept the above hypothesis as correct. Then, we can regard this as showing the economic development in the Kaveri Delta during the Chola Period.

2. Muvēndavēḷāṉ and Brahmarāyaṉ

The chronological distribution of the titles muvendavelan and brahmarayan[10] is as follows: (The figures

Mūvēndavēḷāṉ	2.2	9.3	2.8	2.0
Brahmarāyaṉ	0.8	2.4	0.6	0.6

Though the percentage of appearance of brahmarayan is rather less frequent than that of muvendavelan, the distribution patterns are rather similar.

The association of these titles with other titles and status terms is shown in the following table. (The figures indicate the number of actual appearance for all periods and districts.)

* We exclude the services in temples.

From the table above we can perceive the strong connection between these two titles and the King's titles (such as Madurantaka, Rajendrachola, etc.),[11] which may suggest the close relation between the King and the holders of these titles. From the wide variety and importance of the status with which both these titles are associated, and also from their connection with the King's titles, we suggest that both of these titles were bestowed by the King on officers of some rank in the administration of the country.

There are, however, some differences between the two titles. Firstly, from the titles themselves we can presume that muvendavelan is the title given to the officers of Vellala caste and brahmarayan is the one given to Brahmin officers. Secondly, from the table above, we notice the fact that one third[12] of the muvendavelan title holders also hold the udaiyan title in contrast to the very weak connection between brahmarayan and udaiyan. Another difference is that in the case of muvendavelan the association with the Revenue Department (puravuvari) is noticeable[13] and unlike the case of brahmarayan the association with the army (senapati) is not seen. Anyway, we can say from the above proposition that the title holders of muvendavelan and brahmarayan must have played important roles in the Chola administration.

11) In both cases the percentage of the title associated with the King's title among the total is about ninety. In cases of other titles the percentage is usually far less.

12) If we regard kilan and kilavan as same as udaiyan, the rate would still rise.

3. Nakkan

We do not know whether nakkan is just a name or a title, but if we consider the fact that nakkan as the given name of some father appears in the section of father's name of his own son in some inscriptions, it may be taken as just a name. However, the chronological and topographical distribution of nakkan shows an interesting pattern as will be seen below: (The figures indicate actual occurrence[14].)

Although its appearance in Jayangondacholamandalam is too rare to be able to comment on, its appearance in Cholamandalam shows a clear decreasing tendency with the

13) The fact of their working in the nadu level administration is suggested by their connection with the title nadu. As for the revenue administration in nadus, see Y. Subbarayalu, Political Geography of the Chola Country, Madras, 1973, pp.41-44.

14) As mentioned early, we exclude the occurrence of Nakkan in the inscription of the Tanjavur Temple (Period II), which records the remuneration to the female dancers and which gives us 400 nakkans.

advent of time. The word nakkan derives from nagna in Sanskrit and is one name of Siva. Then, can we argue in this way, that the popularity of this name in Cholamandalam in the early Chola Period and its unpopularity in the same area in a later period would show the vicissitude of Saivism in Cholamandalam?

4. Feudatory Titles

We classified more than 28 titles as Feudatory titles. All but a few of them are the titles usually found suffixed with arayan or its variations such as marayan, adarayan, etc. The chronological distribution of the appearance of these 28 titles is shown in the table below: (The figures indicate the actual occurrence. The value 0.5 found in the periods III and IV represents a case whose period is not certain whether it is III or IV.)

Among the patterns of distribution shown in the table below, the following three titles may be distinguished from the rest through their similarity in pattern and frequency. They are Brahma, Pallava and Viluppa. When we examine the connection of the titles Pallava and Viluppa with other titles and status terms as we did for Brahma above, we shall know that all these three have similar character. We showed above that the title Brahma was associated closely with King's titles and also with many important status terms in the government such as adikari, olai, senapati, etc. and suggested that the holders of Brahmarayan title would have occupied some important position in the administration. In the same manner, we can suggest that important positions in the government were also occupied by holders of the titles Pallavarayan and Vilupparayan. Their association with the Revenue Department is also seen.

Among other Feudatory titles, only Ilangovel shows similar character, namely association with the administration, but in the rest we can find little association with the administration. For example, Sambu and Malaiyakula, which appear only in the latter half of the Chola Period and only in the districts of South Arcot, North Arcot and Chigleput, have no relation at all with the governmental status terms.

From detailed examination (which we omit here) of all these 28 titles, we can suggest that Pallavarayan and Vilupparayan also are the titles bestowed by the King on people who occupied an important position in the Chola regime and are, therefore, different in character from the other Feudatory titles, most of which may be taken as the titles held independently by the local powers.

In the case of Muttu, its distribution shows a somewhat similar pattern to those of Brahma, Pallava and Viluppa, but a close examination of its connection with other titles and status terms reveals difference in character from the former three. In this connection the infrequency of the appearance may be taken as suggestive of this difference.

5. Nāḍāḷvāṉ and Madhyastha

The following table shows the chronological distribution in the frequency of appearance of the title nadalvan and the status madhyastha for all the districts. Figures indicate the percentage of occurrence.

	I	II	III	IV
Nāḍāḷvāṉ	0.0	0.6	0.7	1.9
Madhyastha	2.7	2.2	0.6	0.5

The distribution of nadalvan shows an increasing tendency and that of madhyastha a decreasing tendency. The term nadalvan which appears only from the second period, means a person who governs the nadu territory. The holder of this title, therefore, may be regarded as a local chief or lord, though one who also seems to have had close connection with the central government. Madhyastha, which is usually associated with the sabha or ur assemblies, means "Arbitrator", but the best translation of it as it appears in the inscriptions would be "Secretary" or "Registrar" of the village assembly.

If so, may we venture to suggest that the decreasing tendency of madhyastha and the increasing tendency of nadalvan taken together, indicate a certain change in the agrarian order of the time, such as the deprivation in the village community of its autonomy by the local chiefs and the emergence of a feudal system? The argument on udaiyan as stated above might also be taken as suggestive of the change in this line.

EXPLANATORY NOTES ON LIST OF NAMES WITH RELATED INFORMATION

The numbers in the first column are the serial numbers given to each individual name. Along the same line as that in which the serial number appears, the first to the third coded references refer to the inscription from which the name has been collected: the first coded reference indicates the Epigraphical Series, the second coded reference states the volume or year of publication, and the third the number of inscription or the page on which it appears in the volume. For these, refer to List 1 in Appendix 1.

The fourth to the sixth coded references show the locality of the inscription: the fourth coded reference indicates the District, the fifth the code number of the Taluk in the preceding District and the sixth the code number of the village in the preceding Taluk. For these, refer to List 2 in Appendix 1.

The seventh to the ninth coded references show the chronological position of the inscriptions: the seventh coded reference indicates the period of Cola rule divided into four, the eighth the name of the king and the ninth, when information was available, the year of the inscription in the Christian era. For these, refer to List 3 in Appendix 1.

The tenth coded reference shows the pattern of segments contained in each name: the numeral 1 indicates the village name, 2 the gotra or its equivalent, 3 the father's name, 4 the individual's given name and 5 his/her title. For this, refer to page xvii in the Introduction.

Names which have been segmented are given in boldface immediately below the line in which the coded references mentioned above appear, each segment occupying one line. The number of segments varies from one to six. The letter 'a' independently placed after some segment indicates the insertion of āṉa, ākiya or āyiṉa meaning alias. The authors have tried to put a hyphen between the component words in each segment in order to distinguish the titles included in the segment. The mvṉ, mvn and mvr are the only abbreviations used in writing segments and they represent mūvēntavēḷāṉ, mūvēntavēḷān and mūvēntavēḷār respectively. Three dots in some part of the segment indicate illegibility caused by damage to the inscription and the parentheses are the ones given by the Epigraphists for some doubtful reading.

In the line(s) immediately below the segment, such information as the title, status, role, etc. is given in code. The abbreviations used are as follow:

F= Female

TA= Title Group A

TB= Title Group B

FD= Feudatory Title

SA= Status Group A

SB= Status Group B

CT= Caste

SR= Servant

KD= Kind

FN= Role

The division of the Title and Status into A and B group is due to technical reasons involved with the process of data arrangement and has no other significance. For details regarding the coded information above, see page xix in the Introduction and List 4 in Appendix 1.
